Product Description

Scope oThe materials of laundry detergent pods mainly include the following aspects:

Internal Detergent Ingredients:

Surfactants: One of the most important components of laundry detergent pods, surfactants reduce the surface tension of water and help water and dirt mix better to remove stains from clothes. Common surfactants include non-ionic surfactants.

Stabilizers: Used to maintain the stability of the laundry detergent pods during storage and use.

Neutralizers: Adjust the pH level of the detergent to make it more suitable for cleaning different types of clothing.

Dispersants: Help other components in the detergent disperse better in water, improving the washing effect.

Fabric Fresheners: Keep clothes smelling fresh and lasting longer after washing.

Fragrances: Provide a pleasant scent to the laundry detergent pods.

Enzymes (such as protease, cellulase, amylase, etc.): Able to break down specific stains on clothing, such as protein stains, fiber stains, and starch stains, improving the washing effect.

Bacteriostats: Inhibit the growth of bacteria and mold, keeping clothes hygienic.

Color Protection Agents: Protect the color of clothing and prevent fading.
